ORANGE CITY, Iowa — An elder in the consistory of the Palos Heights Reformed Church, Palos Heights, Ill., was elected vice president of General Synod of the Reformed Church in America Thursday, the first layman named to high office since the 1940's.

He said total giving across the denomination for all purposes amounted to some $39 million in 1970, an increase of $2.5 million over the previous year. A budget of $4,435,000 has been adopted for the coming year.

Dr. de Velder cited increased giving in a number of other communions as an indication that people are ready to "underwrite their denominational programs in a more significant manner."

NOSE Tips by Leo Martonosi

Ray Backus, who coached the Holland High Dutch to their best won-lost record in baseball in the past 25 years this season, announced today that he has resigned as mentor after five years at the helm.

The Dutch ended their 1971 season with a fine 15-6 overall mark and according to Backus, it is the best record in the past 25 years at Holland in baseball.

Backus, 30, who accepted the position on an interim basis in 1967, stated, "After five rewarding years of running the program at Holland, on an interim basis, I have decided to step down as head coach." This was the only reason he sighted.

The sharp dressing Holland mentor will remain on the staff as a mathematics teacher and will again assist head football Coach Dave Kempker this fall. Football is still my first love but I like to work with kids and see them develop," said Backus. This was the big reason that he stayed on as long as he did as baseball coach.

Things were at the bottom as far as baseball goes when Backus took over in mid-year from Paul Berta and Ray's team only won five games and dropped 14 during that span.

Holland was 6-11 in 1968, 7-11 in 1969 and 8-10 last year before they put it altogether this spring for a 15-6 mark.

"I didn't quit because I wanted to go out as a winner because I had planned on resigning at the outset of the season," Backus replied.

Slugging first baseman Rick Van Tongeren is called, "the finest" player that I have coached," said Backus. Van Tongeren will attend the University of Michigan this fall, where he will go out for both baseball and football.

"Van Tongeren always gives 150 per cent and is a real gentleman," echoed Backus. "He hits the ball harder than any high school player I have seen in the past five years."

Another fine player Backus coached was Max Glupker, who is presently attending the University of Illinois but expects to transfer to Western Michigan University this fall.

The muscular Backus graduated from Michigan Lutheran Seminary in Saginaw in 1959, where he was a standout in football, basketball and baseball.

Backus lettered as a freshman at Northwestern College in Watertown, Wis. in 1959 as a defensive tackle and transferred to Western Michigan University as a sophomore. The 5'10" 190-pound Backus played on the Broncos' varsity team for three years as a guard.

Zeeland High School was the first assignment for Backus when he graduated from WMU in 1963. Backus signed on as assistant in football and was also head golf coach in 1965 before jumping at the opportunity to coach and teach in the Holland school system in the fall of 1965.

Backus is directly responsible for Holland attending its first spring baseball trip to Florida this past spring and he hopes that whoever takes over as coach will continue to do likewise.

"Not one tax dollar was spent on our trip south and I would like to thank all the people that made our trip such a success," snapped Backus.

We only had the privilege of working with Ray for two years and appreciate all the help that he has given us.

From the sports desk, we are going to miss you Ray and I'm sure the fellows on the baseball team feel the same way.

MAN PROVES HIS HUMANITY

In his day, Robert Burns rightly complained of "man's inhumanity to man." In spite of our vaunted civilization, there's still plenty of it around today. It rears its ugly head and manifests itself in so many violent ways such as in racial strife and war. And yet, when natural disaster strikes, be it a tidal wave in Indonesia, or more recently the current catastrophe of the cholera epidemic around Calcutta, it is reassuring to find that the more affluent nations of the world are quick to come to the rescue by airlifting plane-loads of supplies of food and vaccines to provide relief.

The prophets through the ages have been telling us that all men are brothers, and perhaps the first faint glimmerings of that fact are beginning to dawn upon the world. Some 40 years ago in the 1931 depression era, the late Harry Fosdick in a sermon referred to Carlyle's comment on an Irish widow in Edinburgh with three children who applied for help and failed to get it, fell ill of typhus instead, infected 17 others, and then died.

In Carlyle's words: "The forlorn Irish widow applies to her fellow creatures, 'Behold, I am sinking bare of help. I am your sister; one God made us. You must help me.' They answer,
'No, impossible; thou art not sister of ours!' But she proves her sisterhood; her typhus kills them; they actually were her brothers though denying it." You point the moral to adorn the tale.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, June 20
God Requires Economic Justice
Micah 2:1-3, 8-9
By C. P. Dame

We live in a strange world.
On the one hand there is much said and done about injustice and on the other hand much injustice is committed. Some of the people who demand justice at times are guilty of injustice.
God demands personal and social justice.

I. Some people deliberately plan doing evil. The prophet Micah described people of that type. Micah—his name means,
"Who is like Jehovah?"—lived and prophesied from 740 to 690
B. C. during the reigns of Ahaz and Hezekiah, in Judah. He was born in Moresheth - Gath, a small village located near the Philistine border about twenty miles from Jerusalem. A great highway from Assyria to Egypt ran through the Valley. Micah lived in the country, away from the cities about whose wickedness he heard, and spoke for the rural districts which were squeezed by the rich land owners who wanted more ground for their estates.

The prophet preached to religious people who observed the rites and ceremonies of religion but did not practice its ethics. Micah taught that God is the Creator, Giver of Life and King and Law-Giver who demands obedience to his laws and makes provisions for his children. Micah said that men planned iniquity upon their beds, schemed how they could get more land. The Levitical law made provision for the return of land to the original owner (Leviticus 25:10) but the greedy got around that law.

Today many greedy people are around judging by the stealing, shoplifting, and crookedness which goes on. All think that they can get away with it. God says that the evil-doers will come to punishment.

II. Evil-doers have no limits.
Micah likens the greedy people to invaders who carry everything they can lay their hands on away using force to do it even if involved mothers and children. Today the covetous are like the covetous in Micah's day
—they will do anything no matter how lawless it is to gain their wicked ends. Micah was hard on leaders in his day who got the best for themselves. A study of the pressures groups of today reveals that often covetousness is the driving motive.

In Micah's day some people scoffed at judgment. To day scoffers speak up loudly. They have no sense of responsibility to God. This explains why there is a moral decline in the nation.
Judah was punished. If our nation continues its downward grade we will reap the consequences of our evil doing.

OUTDOOR CLASSROOM — Longfellow School honored parents, teachers and custodians who helped the school faculty and students in the school's newly planted central courtyard. The planning and large projects were completed with the assistance of (left to right) Robert Semeyn, director of conservation education; Alton Kooyers Jr., a parent volunteer; Mrs. Dee Walther, fifth grade teacher and Philip Baron, PTO president. Fifth and sixth graders at the school are responsible for digging and planting each year as the ongoing project to improve the area enclosed by the school continues.

School Fetes Courtyard Plan Aides

Mrs. Jane Lampen, principal, and Longfellow School faculty ended the year Thursday with a reception for Longfellow parent volunteers, teacher specialists, and custodians who have helped them and the children during the 1970-1971 school year in their newly planted "outdoor classroom."

Three years ago old Longfellow School was torn down. The new school was built in a rectangle around the demolished structure, forming an interior courtyard. This empty space presented a challenge especially since one long hallway, the office and four classrooms had exposure to it.

With the help of Bob Semeyn, director of conservation education, an outdoor classroom was planned. Plantings now started are largely native Michigan plants, a good percentage of which bear berries and attract birds. As the soil is poor and contains a great deal of rubble each new planting requires the area be excavated and refilled with black soil and wood chips. The Holland Park Department has been providing these materials.

The actual work of digging and hauling is done by fifth and sixth grade students who have taken great interest in each year's program. Mrs. Dee Walther, fifth grade teacher, has assumed the responsibility for the gradual development of the area with the help of custodians Henry Tien and Emerson Tanis.

Alton Kooyers, long active in scouting activities at Longfellow, is one of those frequently called on for assistance in small building projects in the courtyard. Philip Baron, this year's PTO president, has steered that organization's interest towards helping with planting purchases.

Graveside Rites Held for Infant

Graveside services were held 11 a.m. Monday for Ann Marie Green, two-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Green, of 119 West 20th St. The child was born Thursday in Holland Hospital and was taken Friday night to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids for surgery and died Saturday morning.

Surviving besides the parents are 13 brothers and sisters, Kathleen May of Traverse City, Thomas, Paul, Jack, Michael, Joseph, Patricia, Burnadette, Timothy, Margaret, Mary, Frances and James, all at home; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Glen Green of Holland, and several uncles and aunts.

Attorney General Says Commitment On Ecology Missing

Americans lack a commitment to solve the country's environmental problems Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley asserted Tuesday in a speech on the campus of Hope College.

Kelley spoke on the political aspects of pollution as part of a week-long environmental seminar sponsored by the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan.

"It's all well and good to talk about pollution, but when it comes to the point of solving a problem such as closing an industrial polluter people can think of a hundred reasons why we shouldn't," Kelley said.

"With today's economic climate how many Michigan communities do you think would pick ecology over economy when dealing with their largest industry who is pouring smoke into the air and polluting the water?" Kelley asked.

"The rhetoric of ecology is here, but the commitment isn't," he concluded.

Kelley said that environmental concern has not moved to the action state.

"Too many people are putting too much reliance on the legal community for enforcement when the scientists don't even know how to eliminate some forms of pollution," he contended.

Elimination of pollution will be one of the most expensive tasks to face this nation Kelley said.

"It isn't surprising that industry is fighting the reality of controlling pollution because pollution is highly profitable," he said.

"While one company is spending a million dollars installing pollution control equipment his competitor can spend as little as $10,000 for legal assistance which ties the case up in court and allows him to continue polluting while manufacturing his product at a cheaper cost. It really makes sense."

Kelley estimated that six billion dollars would have to be spent by the end of 1972 just to meet existing water quality standards in the U.S.

He offered two suggestions before committing that type of expenditure: —The federal government should provide research funds to determine pollution solutions.

—Industry and the public should give the total results of research already completed.

"A lot of research for the federal government is under a rock," Kelley claimed.

He also suggested that new tax incentives be offered to companies who install pollution control equipment.

"They (businesses) are allowed a 100 per cent tax writeoff for advertising expenses and yet they get only 40 to 50 per cent tax relief for pollution equipment," Kelley said. "It's no wonder that many companies have resorted to extensive false environmental protection advertising claims instead of seeking serious solutions to their problems."

The very form of government in the United States is making the war of pollution difficult to wage Kelley said.

"There are 85,000 governmental agencies in this country and not one can agree with another on solutions to the pollution problem," he asserted.

"We live in a country with a frontier mentality," he said. "People are more concerned about themselves than society as a whole."

He pointed to the fact that less than half of Michigan's more than 1,000 townships have neither a zoning ordinance or some form of growth plan.

He further stated that half of the dwellings erected last year in Michigan were of the mobile home variety and that most of them were not connected to adequate sewage treatment systems.

"We have to stop this 'I care only about myself attitude' he said.

"One township recently tried to pass a zoning ordinance and opponents of it passed it off as a communist conspiracy; and the ordinance lost at the polls," Kelley reported.

Kelley spoke of the country's tendency to jump on so-called "bandwagon causes."

"A while ago it was law and order that everyone wanted and yet I don't know of any city in this state that added more policemen," he said.

"In the early 60's we had to have a crash program because the Russians were 25 years ahead of us in the space race; it took us 18 months to pass them."

The government will never be able to take every violator to court to force him to comply with the law according to Kelley.

He pointed to the current billboard controversy in which Michigan stands to lose $15 million in federal funds if the illegal boards are not removed from along Interstate highways.

"Last year through court action we had approximately 100 billboards removed, but at the same time another 800 were constructed illegally," he reported.

"We can't take polluters to court just like we can't take every sinner to court to change the morals of the country," Kelley said. "It takes a personal commitment that goes beyond a court of law."

4 Holland Residents In Hope Vienna Tour

John Arendshorst

Dawn Vollink

Steven Brooks

Mary Sue Hekman

Participants in the 16th annual Hope College summer program in Vienna Austria left Sunday.

Dr. Paul G. Fried will again direct the Vienna Summer School program for the College after a two-year interval. Other appointments to the Hope College administrative staff include Mrs. Donald Scarlett, manager of Hope's International Education Office, who will accompany the group as women's adviser and Karl Borsai, Instructor of German at Hope who will again serve as assistant director with Dr. Fried.

Of the 28 students enrolled in the Vienna program 15 are from Hope College. The remainder come from ten other colleges and universities through the United States. Included in the group from the Holland area are: John Arendshorst, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Arendshorst, 379 West 31st Street, Holland and a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University; Steven Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Brooks of West Olive and a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University; Mary Sue Hekman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hekman of 67 East 29th Street, Holland and a Hope junior; and Dawn Vollink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Vollink of 749 Harrison Avenue, Holland, and a Hope junior.

The Hope group left New York on Sunday evening following a reception given in their honor that afternoon at the Austrian Institute in New York. A two-day stopover in Iceland will be used to explore some of the countryside of this unusual island and to permit students to make the transition from the United States to Europe. After arrival in Luxembourg the group will travel along the scenic Mosel and Rhine Rivers to Bonn, the capital of West Germany, where Hope alumnus Bruce van Voorst, Newsweek bureau chief for Germany, will brief them on current European issues.

An audience with Queen Juliana of the Netherlands at her residence in Soesdijk will be the highlight of this year's tour. Arrangements for the reception of the Hope representatives by Her Majesty, Queen Juliana, were requested through Willard Wichers, director of the Netherlands Information Service and a trustee of Hope College.

During the remainder of their stay in The Netherlands members of the Hope group will be guests of Dutch families in Haarlem, near Amsterdam. Prof. Bonno van Dijk, who spent two years at Hope College as a visiting lecturer in history, provided the necessary contacts by asking his own Dutch students to invite a young American into their home for a three-day homestay. There were many more offers of hospitality than American students who could accept them.

Other major stops on this year's three week long introductory tour will include a meeting at the International Labor Office in Geneva, Switzerland, a three day stay in student facilities at the University of Grenoble, France, a brief tour through Northern Italy, and a trip through some of Austria's most scenic Alpine areas on the way to Vienna.

As usual, the major part of the Hope European program will be the six week academic session in Vienna. During that time students will live in private residences and will attend classes in art history, music, literature, history, drama and German. A variety of optional weekend excursions have been planned for the Hope group. One of these will be a two-day visit and homestay in a typical Austrian village. There will also be trips to Prague, Czechoslovakia; Budapest, Hungary and to the famous Salzburg Music Festival.

Perhaps the most interesting innovation in the program will be the 11 day Danube cruise which is scheduled to follow the close of the academic session in Vienna. A number of Hope alumni expect to join the Vienna Summer School students on this trip which will include stops in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union. For six days participants will travel by ship down the Danube into the Black Sea and to Yalta. After two days there they will fly to Kiev, capital of the Ukraine for a two day visit before returning to Vienna where the formal program will end on August 25.

The final experience of students enrolled in the Hope College program will be a period of independent travel, permitting each participant to visit friends or points of personal interest in various parts of Europe. Students have the option of returning from Luxembourg either on September 1 or September 9 to New York.

Shelving Falls, Chemicals Are Mixed at College

Shelving in a chemical storage room at the chemistry building on Tenth St. at Hope college collapsed during the night, spilling various dry and liquid chemicals.

Holland firemen, working under the guidance of chemistry personnel, Dr. David Klein and Dr. Irwin Brink removed the mixture of chemicals without serious incident.

Firemen were called at 7:40 a.m. Tuesday and remained at the scene for about 75 minutes. Air masks were worn to protect firemen against noxious gases and vapors from the chemicals.

The chemicals were placed in barrels and removed from the building. One of the barrels caught fire but no damage was reported, firemen said. No injuries were reported.

Dr. Klein said the spilled chemicals in the first floor storage room were part of the supplies for a summer institute in science at the college. He said the chemicals were placed on the shelving in alphabetical order and the spilled chemicals ranged from "A" to "C".

Klein said most of the noxious fumes came from aluminum chloride.

Memorial Reading Room Dedicated at Library

ZEELAND — A new reading room addition to Zeeland Public Library was dedicated at ceremonies Saturday morning, the gift of the Kole family in memory of their parents, the late John H. Kole and Una P. Kole.

The library, which opened two years ago after a joint city-school library in the high school, occupies part of the building which formerly housed the Kole auto agency. The larger share of the building is used for city recreation. Civil Defense headquarters are in the basement.

The new reading room housing comfortable chairs, magazines and reference books is a gift to the city from Jack Kole, Washington correspondent for The Milwaukee Journal, Mrs. Peggy Yates of Alexandria, Va., and Mrs. Katherine Thompson of Tampa, Fla. Kole, formerly employed at

The Holland Evening Sentinel, unveiled the plaque, and reminisced about his boyhood in Zeeland and the hours he spent in the building now housing the library. The new reading room occupies what had previously been the route to the repair portion of the garage. The Koles had operated the garage about 25 years. Mr. Kole died in 1964 and his wife in 1957.

John Dyksterhouse, chairman of the Zeeland Library Board, presided at the brief ceremony and sketched the history of library services and Mayor Frank Hoogland accepted the gift on behalf of the city. Other members of the Library Board are Mrs. Don Koolman, Mrs. Jack Miller, Randall Dekker and Betty Shoemaker.

Mrs. Agnes Pauline serves as librarian for the Zeeland library which operates under a contract with Herrick Public Library in Holland. The Zeeland library operates five days a week and is open two evenings. It is located at 14 South Church St. in the downtown area.

Kole and his wife have five children including two sets of twins. They are Linda and Leslie, 14, James, 11, and Sara and Susan, 7. Kole was in Zeeland for a 20th anniversary reunion of his high school class.

The wedding vows of Miss Donna Lynn Steffens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett C. Vande Riet of Birmingham, formerly of Holland, and Dale H. Petersen, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Petersen, of Sumas, Wash., were solemnized Saturday.

The Franklin Community Church was the scene for the afternoon ceremony which was performed by the groom's father and Dr. H. Ellens, Stuart Eppinga was soloist for the occasion.

For their honor attendants the couple chose Denny Stone and Karl Petersen. Betty Vande Riet and Nancy Petersen were bridesmaids. Kimberly Jo De Young, junior bridesmaid, and Lisa De Young, flower girl. Also attending the groom were Jim Scheffer and Dennis Steffens. Jeffery Steffens was ring bearer.

The bride's ivory organza gown was fashioned with an empire waist with rim border lace, lace high collar, pin tuck bib yoke with Venice lace trim, and chapel train hemmed with flounce veil. A pearl frosted lace bonnet held a tiered veil of illusion. She carried an inlaid pearl Bible, given to the bride by her brother on a visit to Jerusalem, covered with stephanotis.

The attendants wore white and coral small floral print gowns of dimity with jewel necklines, full bishop sleeves, and sashed with coral ribbon. Matching large picture hats of coral and loose bouquets of painted daisies and baby's breath completed their ensembles.

The flower girl's gown of coral dimity had a jewel neckline, puffed short sleeves and full-length skirt with ruffle.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Following a honeymoon at a cottage on Lake Michigan, the couple will reside in Paris Estates, Grand Rapids.

The bride is employed by AAA and the groom attends Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

Robert Verwoert Ordained Priest In Milwaukee

GREENDALE, Wis. — Robert H. Verwoert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Verwoert of Greendale, Wis., was ordained a Roman Catholic priest May 29.

His mother is the former Rebecca Hacklander, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hacklander of Holland.

Rev. Verwoert was ordained at Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish in West Allis with Auxiliary Bishop Leo Brust of Milwaukee officiating.

Rev. Verwoert said his first mass May 30 at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church. During the concelebrated mass, Father Verwoert gave first communion to two cousins, Elizabeth Bransdorfer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Bransdorfer of Reed City and Jane Riksen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Riksen of Grandville.

Mrs. Bransdorfer and Mr. and Mrs. Riksen are Holland natives. The Bransdorfer family made their home in Holland for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bliss and Mr. and Mrs. Ryleen Hacklander of Holland are aunts and uncles of the newly ordained priest.

Rev. Verwoert is a graduate of St. Alphonsus grade school, attended DeSales preparatory seminary; received a bachelor's degree in philosophy from St. Francis de Sales College, Milwaukee, and has successfully completed examinations for his master's degree in theology at St. Francis school of pastoral ministry.

which embraces the city of Allegan's first precinct.

He was born in Washington, Pa., attended schools there and graduated from Lafayette College, majoring in economics. His three sons are all University of Michigan graduates. Two sons have served in Vietnam.

Irwin has broad business experience. He was in the oil field equipment sales field participating in exploration for oil and gas in Michigan. He was general superintendent of construction for the J. A. Irwin Co., directing operations in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

As owner and manager of a farm equipment agency in Allegan, he also operated a wholesale oil and gasoline distributorship for a major oil company. Most recently he has been affiliated with insurance and finance companies as a registered representative.

Son of a minister and a life-long church member, Irwin has served his home church as deacon and member of the board of trustees. He is active in the Allegan Chamber of Commerce which he has served as president. He is a member of Allegan Rotary Club and former treasurer of the Board of Education.

LAKESIDE VIEW OF ORIGINAL DENKMAN HOUSE.

Boathouse Recalls Denkman's Estate

By Paul Van Kolken

It was the roaring 20s and Western Michigan was the summer playground of the wealthy from Chicago. Massive summer homes dotted the inland lake areas along the shoreline.

Passenger and freight steamers plyed routes between Chicago and such ports as Holland, Grand Haven and Muskegon.

It was during this period that wealthy lumberman Edward P. Denkman of Rock Island, Ill., related to the famed Weyerhaeuser lumber family, accomplished a feat that few persons of his ability could match.

Denkman had purchased six lots in Waukazoo and in 1926 assembled choice lumber and a crew of workmen and shipped them to the raw land.

On Memorial Day, ground was broken. By Labor Day, a main 2½ story house with eight bedrooms and 6½ baths, two guest houses, accessory buildings, a water supply system and a 50 by 60-foot boathouse were completed.

The acres of land at the southwest corner of Big Bay was landscaped and an Olympic sized swimming pool, fed by springs, was installed.

Acquaintances of the Denkmans recall that Denkman spent little time at the summer estate but his wife and son, Carl, summured there after completion.

Carl designed a 50-foot long cruiser built of mahogany woods at a cost said approaching $50,000. It boasted one of the first showers on a private boat in the area.

The boat was housed in the imposing boathouse which was wrecked in a June 6 storm. The boathouse had facilities for four boats in docking slips and racks for storage of boats out of the water.

Family friends recall Carl operating the boat on Lake Macatawa and taking overnight trips to Chicago. He was in his 20s.

In 1928 Carl was married and he and his new bride were flying in their private plane on their honeymoon when the plane was forced to land on a highway. Reports received by friends here told of how the plane struck a guy wire of a pole and both Carl and his bride were killed.

Residents here said in the years after Carl's death, the Denkmans infrequently visited the summer estate. It was sold by the Denkman family in 1948 to Nicholas Hoffman. Denkman died in 1956.

Today the main house at 1374 Waukazoo Dr., and four acres of the water front estate are owned by the Stuart Boyds who had the top floor of the wooden frame main house removed and the interior of the ground floor remodeled.

The original house included a 20 by 19 foot dining room and a 40 by 19 foot living room, all overlooking the sweeping front lawn with an unobstructed view of the western half of Lake Macatawa and Big Bay.

HOLLAND AND ZEELAND GOLDEN AGERS GATHER IN KOLLEN PARK

300 Attend Picnic For Golden Agers

There were 300 members of the Holland and Zeeland Golden Agers Clubs at the joint annual picnic at Kollen Park, Wednesday.

Special guests were Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr. and Mayor Pro Tem Louis Hallacy, who were introduced by the Holland Club's president Richard Wolters.

The Holland club was in charge of the program which included music by a trio from Hamilton, Miss Lois Lugten, Mrs. Elwyn Maatman and Mrs. Quentin Klingenberg, accompanied on a portable organ by Mrs. Carl Tidd; a trio of Capt. and Mrs. William Spyker with Miss Henrietta Veltman; Mrs. Jeanette Hargerink, soloist. Humorous skits were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Sprik and a "Yankee - Dutch" reading by Mrs. Ann Vanden Bosch. The group also sang several songs, including Dutch Psalms.

The Zeeland group swept the field in contests and games, winning all the prizes. Mr. and Mrs. A. Post of Zeeland were the longest married couple present, 63 years, and Mr. and Mrs. Marinus Rynbrandt, married in May, won the prize for the most recently married.

Other Zeeland prize winners were Joe Nagelkirk, Mrs. John Glass and Mrs. John De Vries. Claus Volkema opened the program with prayer and Mrs. William Spyker conducted devotions.

The next activity for the Golden Agers of both clubs is a bus trip on July 14 to an Amish village. Nearly 150 members have made reservations for the outing.

Graduates Hear Admiral Hadden

The pursuit of peace, immediate peace and lasting peace, is the one goal in America today, Rear Admiral Mayo A. Hadden Jr. of the U. S. Navy, an alumnus of Holland High School, told the Holland High School graduating class at the school's 88th commencement Thursday night in Civic Center.

The admiral told the 347 seniors that today's graduate faces the customary great challenges and great opportunities, but never before have so many young people been so interested, so informed and so involved. Moreover, there are but two options — world wide peace or world wide disillusionment, disappointment and distress, he said.

He pointed to the 1950s when U.S. leadership was unquestioned on the economic, industrial and military fronts leading to what he termed a "sit on our hands syndrome" out of which has evolved complete apathy and complacency resulting in today's unprecedented paradox of hostility.

While many Americans today would like to believe the cold war is over, Admiral Hadden was inclined to be cautious, pointing to 17 years of negotiations at Panmunjom with no Korean settlement in sight, and the three years of unproductive Vietnam negotiations in Paris. "Our prisoners of war must not be forgotten, betrayed or deserted," he said.

He expressed sharp concern over the trend in the United States of increasing hostility toward the military. He could understand resentment against the draft and moral convictions over Vietnam making "Washington the whipping boy," but had no kind words for campus revolutionaries too often supported by campus leaders and trustees in "destroying the traditions I have sworn to uphold."

On a more optimistic note he reminded the young people they are the leaders of tomorrow, that they are in the best and most wonderful country in the world, that "yours is a proud heritage; guard it well," and work for a peace with freedom, with justice and with strength.

He was introduced by his nephew, William Mayo Hakken, class president, who announced the class memorial at the close of the program. Funds were earmarked for the biology department for landscaping, a grand piano for Performing Arts auditorium, sums for the Student Loan Fund, and funds for names on campus buildings similar to those on the Hazel Forney Herrick Art Center.

Principal Frederick S. Bertsch called the roll of graduates and School Supt. Donald L. Ihrman presented diplomas. The Rev. Paul E. Robinson of First United Methodist Church gave the invocation and the school orchestra provided music under the direction of Gerrit Van Ravenswaay.

Admiral Hadden was the fifth in a series of distinguished alumni addressing Holland High seniors. Previous speakers have been Dr. John J. Pruis, president of Ball State University; Dr. Clinton R. Harrison, neurosurgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital; John G. Dinkeloo, architectural engineer, and Lloyd A. Heneveld, patent attorney.

Hamilton Man Teaches At Ingham County Jail

By Jane Denys

MASON — Gordon Locatis, social studies teacher and 1970 MSU graduate, begins each teaching day by obtaining the release of his 40 students from their cell blocks at the Ingham County Jail.

Locatis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Locatis of route 1, Hamilton. Many of his inmate students are "highly motivated," he says. The class, coordinated through the jail's educational program, is sponsored by Lansing's Adult Education Office.

Locatis is one of five instructors at the jail. Others teach mathematics, English, arts and crafts and auto mechanics. Participation is voluntary and, according to Locatis, the inmates are enthusiastic. Some of the classes are at their maximum capacity of 12 and have a waiting list.

"The real success of the program is going to be based on the number of men who don't return to the jail after their release," Locatis said. He explained that normally a high percentage of inmates return for repeated offenses.

One of the purposes of the program is to encourage inmates to continue in adult education after their release.

"Many come in with a negative attitude toward their ability in academic areas," Locatis stated. "We have to reverse that attitude by presenting material which they find relevant."

Program officials attempt to assist with job placement by working in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Vocational Rehabilitation and other service organizations.

Locatis remarked that black participation in the program exceeded that of white inmates, although blacks do not dominate the jail population as a whole.

determined by an expressed need to study black history."

Books on social problems and psychology are popular with the students. Locatis said he hopes to present some material on drug education in the future.

Most of the students are in the 19-to-21-year-old age group, Locatis said, but his class has one 50-year-old man.

Locatis said his teaching at the Ingham County Jail is more rewarding than his past experiences in substitute teaching in the Lansing area. He said he even provided one inmate with law books with which to research his own case.
